Details overleaf

SAGE Sage is an international mediation firm established in 2019 to deliver exceptional mediated solutions to clients in Asia, Europe and America.

Leveraging on a digital case management protocol, a panel of the world's finest mediation professionals, a multi-talented team of inhouse mediation advisors, and Singapore's strategic location and world class infrastructure, Sage has achieved an outstanding track record of success in resolving complex disputes.

Sage is also a global conflict management education institution.

Designed to raise the bar of international mediation excellence, Sage's mediation trainings are approved by the leading international mediation standards bodies. With a distinguished alumni of corporate leaders, lawyers, and policy makers, each programme offers unique perspectives on conflict psychology, negotiation technique, process design, and international dispute resolution law.

Maadhyam Maadhyam is an international ADR/ODR institution, a research think tank, committed to capacity building for conflict resolution. It is established as an organisation of practitioners in law, negotiations and resolutions, for over a decade. Maadhyam is a pioneer in the mediation movement in India and has actively participated in the policy and law-making in the field of ADR, including mediation.

Maadhyam was privileged to be invited to witness the historic day – August 7, 2019, when India signed the Singapore Convention, and post that, it has been organising many awareness and training programmes towards ensuring a robust international mediation system that can enforce mediation agreements.

India is today perceived as an important growth centre with immense young talent. With this, India has every potential to be one of the world's best mediation hubs and ADR/ODR institutions.

Embracing the best practices in international and domestic conflict resolution, Maadhyam has taken steps to empower communities and individuals to adopt mediation as one of its goals, thereby bringing peace and harmony in society.

STRAUS INSTITUTE The Straus Institute for Dispute Resolution at Pepperdine University Caruso School of Law is an internationally-recognized academic center specializing in the study of Alternative Dispute Resolution, or ADR, processes. The Institute offers students advanced degrees in Master of Laws (LL.M.), Master of Dispute Resolution (MDR), and Certificate in Dispute Resolution, with opportunities to concentrate studies in international commercial arbitration, corporate law, business, and public policy, among other areas. And through its renowned Professional Skills programs, the Institute trains lawyers and non-law practitioners at all levels of practice and across diverse industries.

The Institute has long led the field of conflict resolution programs in the United States, having been ranked #1 by the U.S. News and World Report for 13 of the last 16 years. Through a global faculty of scholars and leading professionals, the Institute offers a comprehensive curriculum, teaching students the skills to manage conflict in a variety of settings. Small class sizes and flexible schedules enable students a great many opportunities to advance their professional goals.

Throughout its thirty-plus year history, the Straus Institute has established itself as a standard of excellence in preparing effective negotiators, peacemakers, and problem solvers, who serve as a driving force for improving the culture of conflict in America, and indeed the world. Its distinguished faculty serve as thought leaders in the ADR field and have cultivated the educational interests of generations of students and alumni, who now advance peace and resolve conflicts on a global scale.
